Synopsis

DOWNLOAD FOR FREE WITH KINDLE UNLIMITED This was to be a social season to remember for the Beaumont family. The Duke of Hampshire Arthur Beaumont, had decided it was now time for him to choose a wife. But love would not be a factor in his decision. It was also his responsibility as head of the family, since the death of his father, to see to it that his sisters found suitable husbands during this, their debutant season. Veronica and Harriet Archer are sisters, both debutante, and as different from one another as two young ladies could be. One was socially acceptable and the other ready to voice her opinions. Harriet and Arthur seemed to have found their match. But is Harriet's persistent suitor mentally equipped to cope with this rejection? The debutants are all set to flourish and impress. But will every eligible bachelor and debutant finish the season agreeably? Can the unrequited move forward without ill feeling? Can the Duke's heart be captured?

Customer Reviews

Ms. Downtown has done it again. She has taken a family full of characters and shook them up. Out of this mess, comes a beautiful, delightful gem. Please keep them coming!

I can't imagine anyone over the age of 10 thinking this is a good book! I also wonder if the author has ever read anything about this time period because of all the mistakes that were made. Dancing three dances in a row with the same man would have been a scandal. I could have overlooked that but it was just so amateurish.
