This book is like a double wide phone book on steroids! It is HUGE. I have so much crap in the front seat when we are traveling that I have no where to put my feet! My husband does most of the driving when we travel while I find places to go, things to see and places to stay. This book would be five star if it were divided into different areas and made into a four book or 8 book set! So you can just take the section you need!

This is one of the most comprehensive Campground Directories available, if not the most. We actually purchased this not so much for our own RV excursion but because we were interested in purchasing a campground. Whatever your purpose, this directory should be the first one to consult.

Just so you understand my review, I don't think RV camping is camping. It's moving a house around. This guide is really for RV'ers, not for someone like me who wants to camp far away from RV'ers and the noise. I camp using my motorcycle. Now, setting aside my bias, let me say one thing. WOW. This is a thorough, complete, huge guide. The dead tree version is hard to use (old school though) because there is just so much information. And I find how they organize the states odd. It took a while to figure out where California was located in the guide. Even me, who likes camping away from things, needs to find a more modern campground for showering, washing clothes, connecting to the internet. And this guide is good for that. But the best thing is the CD which appears to be the whole book on one disk. Now this thing itself should get 10 stars. It's easy to search. It fits in a small area. So, if you're into car or RV camping, this guide is perfect. If you want to find that secluded primitive campground in the Rockies, this isn't so useful. A solid 5 stars for the finding clean, modern, state of the art campgrounds. A solid 3 stars for those who search for the quiet place. But that CD is just perfect, which I will carry when I need to find one of those modern campgrounds.

When we first bought our RV 3 years ago, the dealer told us we needed Woodall's directory to help us plan trips. I rushed out to a book store and plunked down $30 for one, and it has been very helpful. On multi-state trips this year, we found much of the information in our edition was obsolete, so my husband remarked that we needed to check for a more recent edition. Imagine my delight to find a 2010 edition on for less than half the price I had paid for the old one. Although the book I purchased was listed as "used", it appeared brand-new, and we look forward to using it for a cross-country trip next year.

The best. Lots of places that are not online.

Gotta have this if you RV! Lists thousands and thousands of RV resorts, campgrounds, federal and state facilities, all kinds of other information relating to camping and RV'ing.

A great resource for RVers. KOA might be the best but this shows ya what else is out there.

excellent!
